THURSDAY, Feb. 0-6 P. M. The speculative feeling was tame on the Stock Ex-nange at the first session of the board, owing to the unertainty of the result of the movements in Grant's army and the stagnation in the gold room. The ten-dency of prices was in favor of the bears, and some dissition was shown to put out sellers' options. The sing sales compared with those of yesterday's second ard as follows:—Eric declined ½, Hudson River ½, Reading M. Michigan Southern 1, Northwestern M. Book Baland M. Fort Wayne M. New York Central advanced 1M. Michigan Central M. Cumberland M. Government accurities were stronger. Coupon ten-fortics improved

Business on the Stock Exchange is likely to continue languid for a long time to come and the railway share market weak and unsettled, owing to the absence of outside buyers. At present nearly all its activity is due to the speculations of brokers; for, as commissions are too fow and insignificant in the great majority of cases to pay their office expenses, they are compelled to operate on their own account, and thus they become their own best customers.

The effect of the wretched and neglected condition of scarly all the railways in the country, combined with the unscruppilous manipulations of speculators, is to deter the public from venturing either to invest or specdeter the public from venering entire or an arraying directors profer paying dividends to keeping their respective lines in repair, and speculators are ready to conspire to run the market up and down for their own profit, this ste of things is likely to continue. The nume nts which have disgraced American railways of late, and made them highways to death, are attributable to ted by the facts.

As an instance of the criminal neglect of railroad com panies to keep their tracks in proper order, we may quote the published statement of passengers by a train which left Cincinnati at ten P. M. on February 3, for Railway, which is thus given :-

tailway, which is thus given:—
That the said train having been stopped by reason of a accident to a freight train, midway between Oxford tation and Newconerstown, on this day, they walked ver the track from said station to the wrecked train, and found the track in a very bad state of repair; that in any instances the rails were entirely disconnected from he ties, which were often rotten and loose, the coupars, in some instances, entirely removed, many of the ins or boits entirely gone, and in many instances the alls disconnected by from three to four inches, and the ills torn and worn out; that in the opinion of the undergned the accident above referred to was occasioned by insecure condition of the track, which renders it mans for travel.

In the House of Representatives to-day Mr. Julian reported back from the Committee on Public Lands the bill of a larger revenue than it possesses from internal sources; but it is an axiom in political science that unde-veloped tracts of country are unproductive and cannot terests, and then only to a very limited extent. The ad law was passed in May, 1862, and by it all citizens, present or prospective, have a right to settle on the public lands. It may, however, be advisable to so moderate extent; but as a source of revenue it will prove of very little assistance to the government. Nevertheless, there can be no harm in passing it in the existing condition of affairs, when heavy taxation must be enforced or the public finances be seriously endangered.

Interesting Suit Against the City. URT OF COMMON PLEAS. Before Judge Daly.

Fmil Reinhard vs. the Mayor, &c .- This was an action to recover $10,500 damages. The plaintiff, passing over the sidewalk in front of the premises 144 Thompson street, about six o'clock in the evening of the Thompson street, about six o'clock in the evening of the 16th of January, 1863, stepped upon a circular grating, the covering of a vault, which, not having been secured below, upturned, and one leg of the planuiff descended into the vault, and he received frightful injuries, from which he can never recover. The usaure of those injuries were minutely testified to by Ira. Detmoid and Winner, and were represented to be of the most serious character. The testimony for the defence showed that the prunises were tenanted by Mrs. Wilkes; that on the provious day out had been taken in through the vault, and that the servants had neglected to scarre the circular grating by featening the iron chain which was suspended to it. The defendant's counsel moved to dismiss the complaint upon the ground that the corporation was not liable, which was decided. The powning had a verdit for $1,000. Malcotus Campbell for planuiff, Frank E, Keruochan and John K. Hackett for defendants.
